Public Forum

- 1. Erna Spijkerbosch (Creeksyde Holiday Park)
 - Mrs Spijkerbosch expressed concern about the following two principles contained in the new QLDC Water Meter Policy:
 - c. QLDC, rather than any individual of business, owns all data collected by a water meter.
 - e. Water meter data must not be used for an individual's own or for others' personal gain or profit.

Mrs Spijkerbosch noted that Creeksyde was the world's first environmentally certified holiday park; it had its own water meters and the data collected was a vital part of the business operation. She considered that this was in conflict with principles (c) and (e), as Creeksyde 'owned' the information from its water meters and 'profited' in that the data collected helped it achieve certification. She asked the committee to revisit the wording as she was sure other places monitored their water usage and she wanted to ensure that Creeksyde would have on-going access to the information and would not be penalised for using it.

1. QLDC Water Meter Policy Update

A covering report from Myles Lind (Manager, Asset Planning) presented an updated QLDC Water Meter Policy for adoption. The updated policy was appended to the report.

The report was presented by Mr Lind. He noted that the update linked back to the new Subdivision Code of Practice and the overall aim was to progressively look at the usage of water. He stressed that was not about privatisation of water or charging for it.

In reply to the concerns raised during the Public Forum, Mr Lind advised that the purpose of the principle was to ensure that data could be captured for the understanding of the network and that third parties could not use the data. It was not intended to restrict valid uses as outlined in the Public Forum. Members agreed that principles (c) and (e) needed to be amended to ensure that they could not be mis-interpreted. Mr Lind suggested various wording changes to ensure that principle (c) did not limit an individual's or business's right to be provided water data collected about their property or business and to clarify in relation to principle (e) that water meter data must not be used for any third party's gain or profit.

It was agreed that making changes at the meeting was inadvisable, and instead it was delegated to the Chair to approve any changes to principles (c) and (e).

On the motion of Councillors Clark and MacDonald it was resolved that the Infrastructure Committee:

- 1. Note the contents of this report;
- 2. Adopted the updated QLDC Water Meter Policy subject to amendments approved by the Committee Chair reflecting private ownership rights; and
- 3. Authorise officers to make further minor changes to the QLDC Water Meter Policy without further recourse to Council, where this is necessary to:
 - a. Fix identified minor errors and/or omissions;
 - b. Ensure continuity with other proposed provisions.
